FUND PROFILE

OBJECTIVE Long-term capital appreciation through investment in equities of Japanese companies that are achieving EPS growth through the skillful execution of unique business models that are well suited to the economic environment and growth opportunities.

APPROACH We start by analyzing all 4000 listed Japanese companies and screening them for growth characteristics. Companies with the qualities we require become our Growth Universe (typically 300-600 companies). Afterwards, the investment team meets with the key decision makers at each of these companies and conducts deep due diligence to determine which ones are the best growth companies in Japan right now. Finally we invest in the best of these companies to optimize appreciation potential.

SUITABILITY Institutional investors who want alpha from Japan.

FUND MANAGER'S COMMENT | OVERVIEW

Our outlook as of April 30 for corporate performance for the fiscal year ending March 2024 (for the 2,074 companies that actually announced their forecasts) is as follows: operating income of ¥62.6 trillion up 14.4% from the previous year, ordinary income of ¥78.9 trillion up 9.4% from the previous year, net income of ¥54.4 trillion up 8.2% from the previous year, and gross dividends of ¥18.6 trillion up 3.7% from the previous year. The rise in long-term interest rates due to the waning expectations for U.S. interest rate cuts has put the brakes on the global upward trend for stock prices. The Japanese stock market also saw activity that appeared to be profit-taking for a wide range of stocks. Furthermore, the decline in U.S. semiconductor-related companies, which had been overheating, spread to the Japanese stock market, causing related stocks to decline. Although there are hopes that the rapid exchange rate fluctuations—at one point reaching ¥160 to the dollar, which was accelerated by the Bank of Japan's unchanged policy rate—would boost performance of exporters, the impact of soaring prices of imported raw materials and fuel on earnings must be closely monitored. We think it is important to continue to conduct due diligence and select companies that can expect medium- to long-term EPS growth.

Investment Themes

WITH THIS IN MIND WE ARE BUILDING OUR PORTFOLIO AROUND THE FOLLOWING THEMES:

1. Companies that have established highly profitable business models that will enable them to achieve a high level of earnings growth over the medium to long term;
2. Companies with sustainable earnings growth over the medium to long term in the hardware and software fields that contribute to the actualization of IoT and 5G, which are part of the fourth industrial revolution;
3. Companies that offer the latest devices that utilize the infrastructure of the Fourth Industrial Revolution and take part in improving customer productivity;
4. Companies that respond to environmental regulations through EV and electrical equipment, which are next-generation themes of the automobile industry where supply and demand are tight;
5. Companies that are resistant to current inflation and maintain high profitability.

FUND MANAGER'S COMMENT | REVIEW

Through company visits and participation in earnings announcement meetings, the fund manager added new positions, confirmed existing positions, and increased the weightings of some positions. One company of note is M&A Research Institute Holdings (9552), which continues to experience overwhelming growth compared to the four major listed companies in the M&A brokerage industry. From finding sellers to selecting buyers, M&A has succeeded through its thoroughly data driven, efficient management. The number of M&A advisors is the key to growth. In relation to the current plan of hiring 320 advisors this fiscal year (ending Sept-2024), it looks like the number of new hires by the end of Q2 (Mar-2024) will exceed that number, and growth is expected to accelerate as recruitment plans for the next two fiscal years are expected to improve. The company has established a system for human resource development that utilizes AI and DX (digitization), and we will continue to hold our position as personnel hired at mid-career can contribute to sales early on, and EPS growth of over 30% annually can be expected over the medium to long term.

FUND MANAGER'S COMMENT | Future Strategy

The market ended negative in April. Our analysis is that this was a month in which investor sentiment turned risk-off due to being disappointed at expectations for a U.S. interest rate cut and the turmoil in the Middle East. As a result, defensive stocks such as food, pharmaceuticals, electricity and gas, and stocks related to energy resources rose, while there was profit taking in stocks such as autos, which had continued to rise until last month, despite the further depreciation of the yen. April was characterized by a struggle for growth stocks, with a particularly notable drop in small-cap stocks with high PBR ratios. Although concerns remain about an economic slowdown, centering on China, our analysis is that the U.S. stock market is regaining its calm due to stabilization of economic activity, which takes into account pre-Lehman Shock interest rate levels in the U.S. There is great potential for growth companies in the Japanese market when investors choose to focus on fundamentals, and against the TOPIX's PER multiple of 17.0x, the PER of companies with good earnings that are trading at fair value has dropped to the 13.2x level. Within that fair value group of growth companies, small-cap growth companies are trading at a PER of 12.6x, and when the market's upward trend is in place, we expect that these companies will rise significantly. Regardless of economic boom or bust, our analysis is that companies with unique business models and high market share will be able to sustain sales growth from the next fiscal year onward and will be able to pass on price increases even in the face of concerning inflationary conditions such as rising raw material prices, so EPS growth will also be sustainable.

Our investment policy is to focus on fundamentals, building a portfolio focused on companies undergoing a high rate of change with a superior market advantage.

We will adjust our position weightings based on target prices using our 3-year earnings estimates, and thoroughly analyze and evaluate company earnings to focus our investments on companies that we expect will improve profits over the medium to long term and have high EPS growth momentum based on unit sales growth.
